About me

Doctor specialized in internal medicine and nephrology. Author of essays about the management system based on horizontal leadership. Author of numerous scientific publications, H-index 6.

Since January 2020, deputy head of the Acceptance and Emergency Department at the "Franz Tappeiner" Hospital in Merano (BZ Italy) in South Tyrolean Health Authority. Responsible, in the forefront, of clinical management and organization for the Coronavirus emergency.

Since January 2016, appointed by the Integrated University Health Authority of Udine as responsible for the management of the SOS of the Hospital of Cividale del Friuli (UD Italy) of Nephrology and Dialysis.

Since 2014, owner and teacher of the International Health cooperation course at the AlmaMater Studiorum, University of Bologna.

Since 2003 founder and director of Socialnews, magazine of geopolitics and health under the patronage of RAI, newspaper registered in 2004 by the Court of Trieste and recognized as Best European editorial product by Euromediterraneo-Confindustria.

National president of the Italian Myelin Project Committee (CIPIM). CIPIM is the Italian part of Myelin Project U.S.A. that supports research for therapy in demyelinating diseases.

Founder and President of @uxilia, Foundation specialized in health aid and cooperation and international diplomacy. He has personally participated in numerous missions in war zones with management and negotiation skills.

As hospital manager, he has applied innovative transverse managerial techniques called Horizontal Leadership. The horizontal organization, through confidence, delegation of responsibilities, assertive communication and creation of cohesive and performing working-groups has led – with the same budget and staff – to improved performance and has increased the quality of life for both staff and users: a winning and repeatable model.

About this he was been guest speaker at TEDx Udine. My book "Avanguardia TEAL" about this model and experience is published by TAB Edizioni (2021).

International diplomacy

Professor Fanni Canelles has experience of international cooperation in international negotiations in the context of war and natural disasters. In particular Afghanistan, Iraq, Palestine, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Pakistan, Srilanka.

In 2003, during the Second Gulf War, he worked with the Iraqi Ministry of Health to restore the functioning of the Al Mansur Children's Hospital in Baghdad. In the same period, with the Italian delegation in Iraq, he took part in activities to bring seriously ill children to Italy so that they could have the necessary care.

In 2004 in Sri Lanka, on behalf of the International Institute of Human Rights, he set up an observatory to monitor economic aid to populations devastated by the tsunami and to report child abuse in the country.

In 2005 he organized a joint and concerted mission with the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Decentralized Cooperation of Friuli Venezia Giulia to organize the activities necessary for the liberation of children unjustly imprisoned in Colombo prison. He later redacted a report for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs on early recruitment for military purposes, sexual abuse and restrictions on the liberty of children accused of petty crimes.

In 2010, he obtained an agreement with the Government of Sri Lanka to bring a number of child soldiers to Italy with the aim of carrying out highly specialized surgical operations to restore the functioning of limbs impaired in battle.

In 2012, he obtained funding and government concessions for the construction of the Vocational Training Centre, a centre for the recovery of child soldiers and women who have suffered violence in Tamil territory, the scene of the clash of the guerrillas of the LTTE (Tamil Tigers).

In 2013, he obtained from the advisor of the President of Sri Lanka permission to act for the protection of former child soldiers and women who have suffered violence during the war.

In 2013 he participated in international agreements to allow the sending and passage in Syrian territory of humanitarian convoys to supply the refugee camps of Atma and Aleppo and to bring to Italy children in need of highly specialized medical and health interventions.

In 2014 he participated in missions to Syria, the Balkans and Asia to oversee ongoing projects and to bring soldier children and children in need of highly specialized medical and health care treatments to Italy. Some of his missions have been told in the book "The little girl with the rifle" written by Susanna de Ciechi.

In 2015/16/17, he intervened in Syria and during the war. Responsible for humanitarian sanitary emergency-aid operations in Aleppo Syria in 2015 and in 2016 performing sanitary management duties for the running of humanitarian corridors, rescues, transports and hospitalization of war-wounded as well as of pathologies, He made telemedicine connections between the hospital in Udine and 17 Syrian health centres.

Managerial skills

Ability to motivate employees, problem solving and management of complex organizations, negotiation, application of the Horizontal leadership like business method

Since January 2016 he has been appointed by the Integrated University Health Authority of Udine as responsible for the management of the SOS (simple operational structure) of the Hospital of Cividale del Friuli of Nephrology and Dialysis. Thanks to innovative transversal management techniques called Horizontal Leadership, SOS, with the same budget and staff, acquired not only hemodialysis, but also peritoneal dialysis and some processes of territorial telemedicine. Outpatient activities increased exponentially, with more than 20,000 services. An important preventive health activity has been set up and became a reference centre for the territory and integrated activities with general practitioners and territorial and district centres

Since 2003 Founder and President of @uxilia. This ONG has signed memoranda of understanding with the Department of Juvenile Justice of the Ministry of Justice, Department of Civil Liberties and Immigration of the Ministry of the Interior, Ministry of Labour and Social Policies. It has been a member of the National Volunteer Observatory. It has stipulated further memoranda of understanding with the Court of Udine and with numerous universities

@uxilia Onlus founded in 2014 Auxilia Foundation with an endowed capital not available in works of art of 300,000 euros. Abroad, they both are engaged in international cooperation, in developing countries which are involved in armed conflicts, with the construction of health centres, schools, orphanages and with pedagogical vocational training activities dedicated to child soldiers and women to support their emancipation. Most of the activities take place in the field of diplomacy and international negotiation. The territories are central Africa, the Middle East and Asia. In Italy the activities of @uxilia are carried out within the framework of territorial social needs such as addiction, in particular the fight against doping, gambling, digital addiction, alcohol abuse and drug use. @uxilia is the organizer of the Concert for Life' where Elisa, Ligabue and Zucchero, Harlem Gospel and Lodovica Comello performed. It organises monthly conferences, theatre shows, docu-films projections, books and magazines publications in collaboration with RAI Eri to raise public awareness on social issues.

Official acknowledgement by Midian Rezek, President of the Syrian Commission for humanitarian affairs in Syria, for his role of Responsible for humanitarian sanitary emergency-aid operations in Aleppo Syria in 2015 and in 2016, performing sanitary management duties for the running of humanitarian corridors, rescues, transports and hospitalization of war-wounded.
